

DAVID SEYMOUR

David came to the United States from the England in 1986 knowing that if there was ever an opportunity for abundant living it was only going to happen here. With a few dollars to his name he landed in New York City, he was 19-years old and a long way from home. With the ghosts of Ellis Island to drive him forward, he began his journey. Dave spent many years going from job to job, and state to state, never reaching any financial independence.

David joined the fire service, thinking his chance had come for stability and financial growth; how wrong he was. Being controlled by political swings, he found himself laid off and facing losing his home and his marriage. “When the dark days come where do you find the light?” David’s inspiration came from reading a book called “Rich Dad, Poor Dad”.

The book showed how so many years of bad information had led to the point of over $400,000 debt and no income to pay it. However, it also showed how to fix the problem with action and education. So began a five-year journey, where David and his lovely wife Mary-Beth took every seminar and real estate course they possibly could. Taking the first step was all they had to do. The excitement and joy of doing their first wholesale deal was the fuel to rocket them forward. Systems became a part of their every business decision and success was repeated over and over again.

This brought Dave to the steps of RE Mentor, being the most aggressive and productive student ever to follow the steps of David Lindahl. He ended up being in the cross hairs of the Guru himself. After being groomed and personally coached by the “Cash Flow King” Dave now speaks nationally teaching all he has learned. He specializes in showing students how to overcome the crippling fear of doing the first deal.

This is a testimonial from George Selibas, he writes... Dear David

Just wanted to say hello and to tell you what an excellent job you all did to make the boot camp such a success. Chris Bowser and David Lindahl did a wonderful job and I made sure they knew about it. As for you, well you did what you do best and that was to entertain, inspire and teach.
